The above cemetery tombstones were first recorded by using a tape recorder and spelling each surname aloud. The tapes were , then , transcribed onto index cards with a separate index card made for those names on a family lot which differed from that lot surname . These are found cross-filed alphabetically.

The book pages are numbered by hand in the upper right corner of each page .

Copies of this Volume will be donated to Library of Congress, National Archives, Church of the Latter Day Saints, National DAR Society and The National Geneal-Soc.

VOLUME 1- GERMAN NAME CEMETERIES, COOK COUNTY , ILL.

Due to the vast population growth in Chicago and it's suburbs , and because of the destruction of vital records during the Chicago Fire of 1871, the author has tried in a small way to gather tomb-stone readings to help those seeking vital data that is so necessary in genealogy.

Regretably , many early cemeteries had no provisions for 'perpetual' care , and as a result many cemeteries are removing old stones, destroying them , and using sites for new burials. There are three cemeteries in the Glenview area which have vanished completely , and even many older residents are unaware they were ever in existence. In two cases, recently, I found that just the week before I arrived several stones had already been removed, and during my taping some that I had covered were disposed of.

Another curious situation was explained to me by a stone cutter who came as I worked. The many stones with granite center shafts sandwiched between weathered marble was explained very simply . Granite was very costly , but being more lasting , the frugal Germans bought granite shafts for inscriptions , and bought the less expensive marble for base and top designs ! Early stone-cutters found that their marble cutting tools were inadequate , and until the sand-blasting tools made their appearance, marble tools were used ; this explains the very shallow letters found on so many early granite stones.

Old marble stones carved with clasped hands, anchors, ivy, doves cupids etc. In many cases , stones without foundations have gradually dug their way into the ground and are lost to all except those with crowbars and a tractor!

Markers for infants and small children were usually small in size , and many had a carved lamb atop or carved in deep relief . Rarely is this stone without a name .

Some emblems carved in stone and their meanings follow; Morningglories : Beging of life. Butterfly-Early death
Lily, purity and innocence. Ivy , friendship and immortality
Corn, ripe old age. Poppy , sleep. Broken ring, family circle broken. Anchor, = hope. Harp= praise to the Maker.
Lamb= Innocence. Cross= Faith. Weeping Willow= sorrow.
Oak leaves and acorns= Ripe old age. Lotus and /or Poppy= sleep. Occasionally , one sees a family lot with a large center monument comprised of 5-6 symbolic designs .

Today , most of our cemeteries require a flat marker . One day , all the interesting and elaborate stones of the present will truly be lost to future generations .

Cemetery Readings- Immanuel Lutheran Church

1

This cemetery is directly across the street from the Immanuel German Lutheran Church which was founded in 1876 . The cemetery is beautifully kept , and abundant with trees. Burials in this cemetery follow church funerals , and in 1967 are officiated by Pastor Maasel. There is a school in conjunction with the church . No vandalism or destruction has occurred in this cemetery , tho occasionally an old marble stone crystalizes and breaks. Many old marble stones were replaced with modern granite , but the old dates and german phraseology was copied in most. Tombstones read and copied April 25, 1966

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CEMETERY - SKOKIE , ILLINOIS p.1 16

Ther recording of this cemetery was done November , 1966. Prior to this time , many stones were removed and the graves resold. The original purchase of grave lots was on a twenty-five year basis , and before removal of stones , and resale , decendants were notified and given the option to establish perpetual care. In many cases this was done.

In 1966, the treasurer of this cemetery was Mr. Henry W. Guenther , 5212 Brown Ave., Skokie , Illinois. The grounds are well cared for. Across the street from this cemetery is another ( St. Peter's Evangelical Reformed Church Cemetery) and the stones there have many the same surnames as found in the following record.

Skokie lies in Cook County , and was once known as Niles Centre.

THIS CONCLUDES THE STJOHN'S LUTHERAN CEMETERY IN GLENVIEW
 *****

LUTHERAN OLD PEOPLES HOME CEMETERY, Wheeling Twnshp
Euclid Avenue, Post Office, Arlington Heights. Cook County, Illinois. This cemetery next to another, but all the stones are identical. Caretaker states husbands and wives were to be buried side by side, but this was not done in all case. Where they are next to one another, it is so indicated. Many of the same names are buried in still another cemetery across the street - called St. Peter's Lutheran Church Cemetery.
